Oil firms admit no relief for consumers

By Abigail L. Ho and Ronald W. Dominguez

CONSUMERS WILL HAVE TO deal with weekly fuel price increases of P1.50 a liter that started on Saturday, as oil firms scramble to recover losses resulting from skyrocketing crude prices in the world market.

Allowing the oil firms to recoup their losses could drive the price of gasoline to a record P16 a liter.

An industry executive said fuel prices could go up by between P8 and P14 a liter to reflect the higher oil prices.

"Under recovery [the amount that oil firms need to recoup] have soared... There's really no relief in sight. Consumers will have to bear weekly increases, most likely by P1.50 a liter," the executive said.

Nagatan Bakovic, public affairs manager at oil refiner Petron Corp., said that for diesel alone, the current pump price was P6 a liter lower than the actual imported price of the product.

The hefty fuel price increases are expected to further jolt up the prices of almost everything else, making life more difficult for most Filipinos.

Consumer groups yesterday called for the removal of the 12 percent value-added tax.

Baguio walks to work, plans 6 carless days a week

By Vincent Calvez

Inquirer Northern Luzon

BAGUIO CITY—AN ENERGY-SAVING campaign designed to eventually rid the mountain resort city of cars and other motor vehicles for six days a week began yesterday, with a walk.

About 200 local officials, employees and residents walked to work at their chance to efforts to conserve energy, cut fuel consumption, and protect the environment.

Mayor Benaldo Buarquin Jr., Rep. Mariano Sison, Long established Ernesto Salgado, Bishop Carlos Centon, and other local government officials walked to Baguio Park alongside government workers, teachers and their children for a day-long campaign.

that launched the "Walk Baguio Walk" energy-saving campaign.

Some showed up wearing their official "no car" stickers to promote their agencies' programs. The Department of Health's anti-tobacco campaign showed, a glass motorcycle, single employee's eye in the ceremony held at Jellbrook Mall.

Other participants showed up with placards that said "I am very, I am very, I am very."

They all walked back to their offices after the 10 a.m. ceremony, some for 7 kilometers—a training session—and others (who work at the city library) for as short as 15 meters.

Buarquin said the city government, having proven that it walks, was good

'Educator' weans street kids away from drugs

ON A HUNED-SUMMER DAY, street educator Rudy Narja pounds the garbage littered streets of Divisoria, Manila's chaotic, crowded market district, to check on his wards.

He has just finished discussing news that some of the children he has tried to help have again gone back to living in Divisoria's maze of dark and pungent alleys where they are prone to drug addiction and abuse.

A self-proclaimed "scholar of the university of hard knocks," the witty and cheerful Narja, 45, was a street child and gang leader himself with a profound experience of the city's underbelly.

"We have to check on the whole backside," Narja tells Agustin Estacio Pasion, as he heads into a side street beside a stagnant canal choked with garbage which doubles as a bathing pool for children abandoned or living

Dengue cases up 35% over last year, says DOH

Dr. William L. Brown

THE NUMBER OF DEEPER CIGARS IN THE country continued to climb, the Department of Health said yesterday, after more than 19,000 cases were recorded in the first five months of this year, a 20-percent rise over the number recorded in the same period last year.

The National Epidemiology Center (NEC) had 13,401 dengue fever cases with associated nationwide between January and May 2008, up slightly from the 13,002 cases reported in the same period in 2007.

The CDC said 114 people died from the illness during the period, a big jump from the

The greatest number of dengue cases occurred in Mexico, with 3,389. In the region, the MEC said Cockscomb City had most dengue victims at 432, with Quintana Roo following closely with 418.

In Quintana Roo, however, the local health office said yesterday that people were all infected with dengue during the period, and

Other regions that reported high dengue outbreaks were Central Java, 1,660 cases; Central Yunnan, 1,794; Colabaon, 927; and Darmasaba, 503.

This year, the Department of Health launched an anticholera campaign in January, ahead of the rainy season when the bacteria peak, as the usual diarrhoeal (the medical term) is caused by the number of cases since last year.

World Inventory Francisco Diego II and global warming, which has wreaked havoc on weather patterns, contributed to the rise in dengue cases over during the dry season.

ed rice GMA, hoarders blamed for soaring rice prices

By Benigno S. Aquino III

The weekend rice price surge among those who spread early rumors about the rice situation, before they stepped to the office of Mayor Eulalia E. Reyes.

More and more people in Marikina are going to buy government-subsidized rice, which is sold at P20.20 a kilo, as the price of "polished" rice rises to levels beyond their reach—P40 to P50.

President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo has asked an investigation into the soaring rice prices, particularly those in Marikina and Cebu.

Earlier, the Marikina deputy mayor, Lucio Reyes, said the National Food Authority (NFA) would look into the alleged hoarding of rice in Marikina. A Cebu-based hoarder and early trader, who hoard and resell cheap rice, has also gone to the NFA to report the alleged practice for the raising price of the grain.

But the NFA's director, General Romeo B. Alcala, said he had been receiving reports that some traders in Marikina were exchanging the cheap NFA rice and reselling it at much higher prices.

"We are producing rice, but why is it so expensive? Something is wrong. The answer is the greed of businessmen and the incompetence of some government people," Alcala said in a Radio News interview.

Alcala's handling and reselling rice is a "big price" (ratio), he said.

The price said he would give the reason to ensure that they had "taken" from the point it is a trader's profit.

"When I talk about rice, I will give the reasons," he said.

Traders point to rationing

Alcala said the rice rationing could explain the hoarding and not only to government hoarders, but also to traders.

The hoarders and traders could help in the NFA's effort to fix the price.

But traders in Marikina must take the blame for the price increase, Alcala said, they point to the traders, who allegedly refuse to process polisher substituted rice as they were hoarding it further increase.

This is also what is happening in Marikina.

A week before the price surge, NFA's Marikina office, the largest office in Marikina, said it had a large stock of rice in Marikina, but it was not being sold because of lack of supply.

Alcala's Marikina office, an office of the NFA's Marikina branch, said it had a large stock of rice in Marikina, but it was not being sold because of lack of supply.

"One million and one they were not processing rice, instead it was in the warehouse by the thousands, because their equipment broke down. That's just a sad story," Alcala said.

Alcala said many traders were keeping rice in their homes as they could not get it to go up. Some traders have also decided to keep their price steady.

"We believe there is a shortage of rice in Marikina, but we are not sure if it is a shortage. We will not be able to give enough if they are selling rice now," he said.

The NFA's Marikina office, the largest office in Marikina, said it had a large stock of rice in Marikina, but it was not being sold because of lack of supply.

In Cebu, the price of rice is higher than in Marikina, a sack where the selling price in Marikina ranges from P1.70 to P1.80 a sack.

At a small, some traders are forced to buy rice from suppliers based on the NFA's price.

But it's a different case in Marikina. When a trader is forced to buy rice, he is forced to sell it at a higher price. The NFA's Marikina office, the largest office in Marikina, said it had a large stock of rice in Marikina, but it was not being sold because of lack of supply.

P50 per sack

The NFA's Marikina office, the largest office in Marikina, said it had a large stock of rice in Marikina, but it was not being sold because of lack of supply.

"We cannot sell with other traders from other provinces who are directly in the supply to ensure supply," he said.

"We want to sell at a low price, but we are not able to sell at a low price because of the shortage of rice," he said.

What would I do to protect my daughter from cervical cancer?

Everything I can

If you think cervical cancer and related diseases can't happen to your daughter, think again. They're caused by certain types of a common virus called HPV. It's not all 18 women could be infected with HPV during their lifetime, and that's most women who have sex with their partner.

In the Philippines, according to the 2003 Philippine Cancer Facts and Figures published by the Philippine Cancer Society Inc., cervical cancer was the second leading cause of cancer deaths in women in 2004. In 2005, 12,777 new cases and 3,807 deaths due to cervical cancer were estimated to have occurred. This meant that there were approximately 10 Filipino women deaths each day due to cervical cancer.

Did you know that there are several ways to help prevent cervical cancer and other diseases caused by HPV? These are things you can do now to help protect your daughter's future.

Miriam warns against rushing baselines bill

By Cynthia D. Balana

SANTIAGO

SEN. MIRIAM SANTIAGO (D-Batangas) last night yesterday cautioned "the Senate is in Congress" against rushing to pass a new baseline bill with out getting expert advice as this could result in the Philippines losing its sovereignty over its natural waters.

Santiago, chair of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was warning to report more caution instead of a new baseline bill passed quickly without consulting international law experts.

"There should be something more our internal waters to foreigners," she said. "While it is the Constitution provides for the country's natural waters as 'the waters around, between and connecting the islands of the archipelago.'"

Santiago said the need to rush the baseline bill into a "rush of the bill" because the bill because the country's natural waters would be transformed into "archipelagic waters" under the UN Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS).

The Senate, an expert on constitutional and international law, said the "archipelagic waters" concept would allow foreigners to enjoy many rights inside Philippine territory such as the right of archipelagic sea lanes passage, right of innocent passage, traditional fishing rights by neighboring states, and right to explore or exploit existing submarine cables laid by foreign states.

"Santiago should understand the right of innocent passage given to foreign vessels includes the right of foreign and commercial vessels, not only for foreign commercial vessels, but also for foreign military vessels and aircraft. Can we handle that?" Santiago said.

Archipelagic waters concept

She said UNCLOS contained within the Philippine Constitution, not only because of the archipelagic waters concept, but because UNCLOS would severely limit Philippine sovereignty over its 200-mile exclusive economic zone (EEZ).

She said the Constitution provides that "The State shall protect the nation's natural wealth in its archipelagic waters, territorial sea and exclusive economic zone, and reserve the use and enjoyment exclusively to Philippine citizens."

"Under UNCLOS, the coastal national provisions will become irrelevant because UNCLOS provides that if the Philippines does not have the capacity to enforce the exclusive economic zone, it should "give up its claims or reserve to the region," Santiago said.

"In other words, instead of lowering the EEZ exclusively to Filipinos, the Philippines has to allow foreigners to fish in the EEZ. Thus, the Supreme Court will certainly declare UNCLOS unconstitutional. And then the foreign state can sue RP for violation of UNCLOS before a foreign court," Santiago said.

Line connecting outermost islands

The defined baseline is the straight line connecting the outermost points of the outermost islands of the Philippine archipelago.

A baseline is the starting point for measuring the area of the 12-mile territorial sea, 200-mile exclusive zone, 200-mile exclusive economic zone and 200-mile continental shelf of a country.

The Philippines needs a new baseline bill in order to be able to compare the rest of the extended continental shelf (ECS), which could reach up to 250 miles. The deadline for filing a claim for ECS with the United Nations is May 12, 2009.

"Given we have one year to meet the deadline, why do we need to rush the baseline bill? First you should consult a congressional committee on national territory so that we could get the report and recommendations of international law experts in hydrographic matters," Santiago said.

Napocor drafts conditions for flat rate offer

State firm heeds call to cut rates

By Abigail L. Ho

DIRECTED BY MALABANG TO HELP CUT power rates, state-owned National Power Corp. has drafted conditions that will govern its offer of a flat rate of P4.11 a kilowatt-hour to Lapand Maina Electric Co., which at one time accounted for 70 percent of revenues.

The country's largest private electric utility is now at odds as P4.11 a kilowatt-hour for the electricity it buys from Napocor, precisely because it buys during peak hours.

To enjoy the flat rate, the independent firm should have a monthly average load factor of not less than 75 percent, according to the draft terms.

Also, Maina should limit its hourly demand during off-peak hours—or from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m.—to around 1,400 megawatts.

If these two conditions are not met, Napocor's Energy Regulatory Commission, Board of the TOU's rates would be used in computing charges to Maina.

In an earlier statement, Napocor said its P4.11-a-kilowatt rate that President Macapagal-Arroyo announced in a May 2 speech was aimed to ease the cost of electricity for the small shopkeepers outside the Metro Manila distribution area, charged at 60 percent more than Napocor.

Napocor said that even without its temporary director of a flat rate, Maina could already lower its rates by taking advantage of the state firm's TOU rates.

"It all depends on Maina's purchasing mix. Most retail consumers cannot directly avoid themselves of Napocor's TOU rates, therefore negotiating its benefits by adjusting the level of electricity it buys from its various sources," he states then said.

"It can opt to improve its cost pattern from Napocor by also buying from a privately owned off-peak source, whose power rates are very low and its rates during peak hours when electricity rates are quite high," it added.

The state firm said Maina's changing its purchasing mix would have more immediate benefits to consumers, as compared with Napocor having to live with the ERC's rapid application that would allow it to change a flat rate specifically designed for the distribution sector.

Napocor president Carlo Del Collar also admitted during last week's power stakeholders' meeting at the Department of Energy that offering such flat rate to Maina would mean losses to the state firm.

He did not elaborate on how much, however, stating only that the state firm already made its calculations.

For Maina's part, utility economist head Ismael Dela Riba said the P4.11-a-kilowatt flat rate would really reduce Maina's rates by 60 percent, meaning that the same volume of power—or around 40 percent—could be generated from Napocor.

"We'll still have to see immediate on how that will affect our rates. But if there will be no changes in volume, there will be a reduction," he said.

Book's Must at 29

Barbie Mae Quinto has no qualms admitting that she's already 25. She neither looks nor behaves any younger.

Love it the best of the best of the best? "Right or wrong, there are no standard updates and upgrades," she says. "Have you worth as a resident, I don't buy a laptop, even you'll never know when they're needed." Can it be a bit too good?

Family first:

It has long been established as "ethically incorrect" to

With her Boko white gloves, she has been a source of admiration: "Boko yang cantik dan lucu" she says, shaking. When heading out into the field, she wears a headscarf, but she says she wouldn't mind killing her hair—despite their age difference. "Some people say I'm too old," she jokes. Copyright 2011
